

Dear Chloe,

Palm trees, palm trees everywhere This place just feels like vacation, you know I don't think I could ever live in Hawaii, because I would only ever want to be on the beach No work for me I also don't know what I think about living on an island The sunsets are amazing though! Hope we can go together one day!

~ Meghan

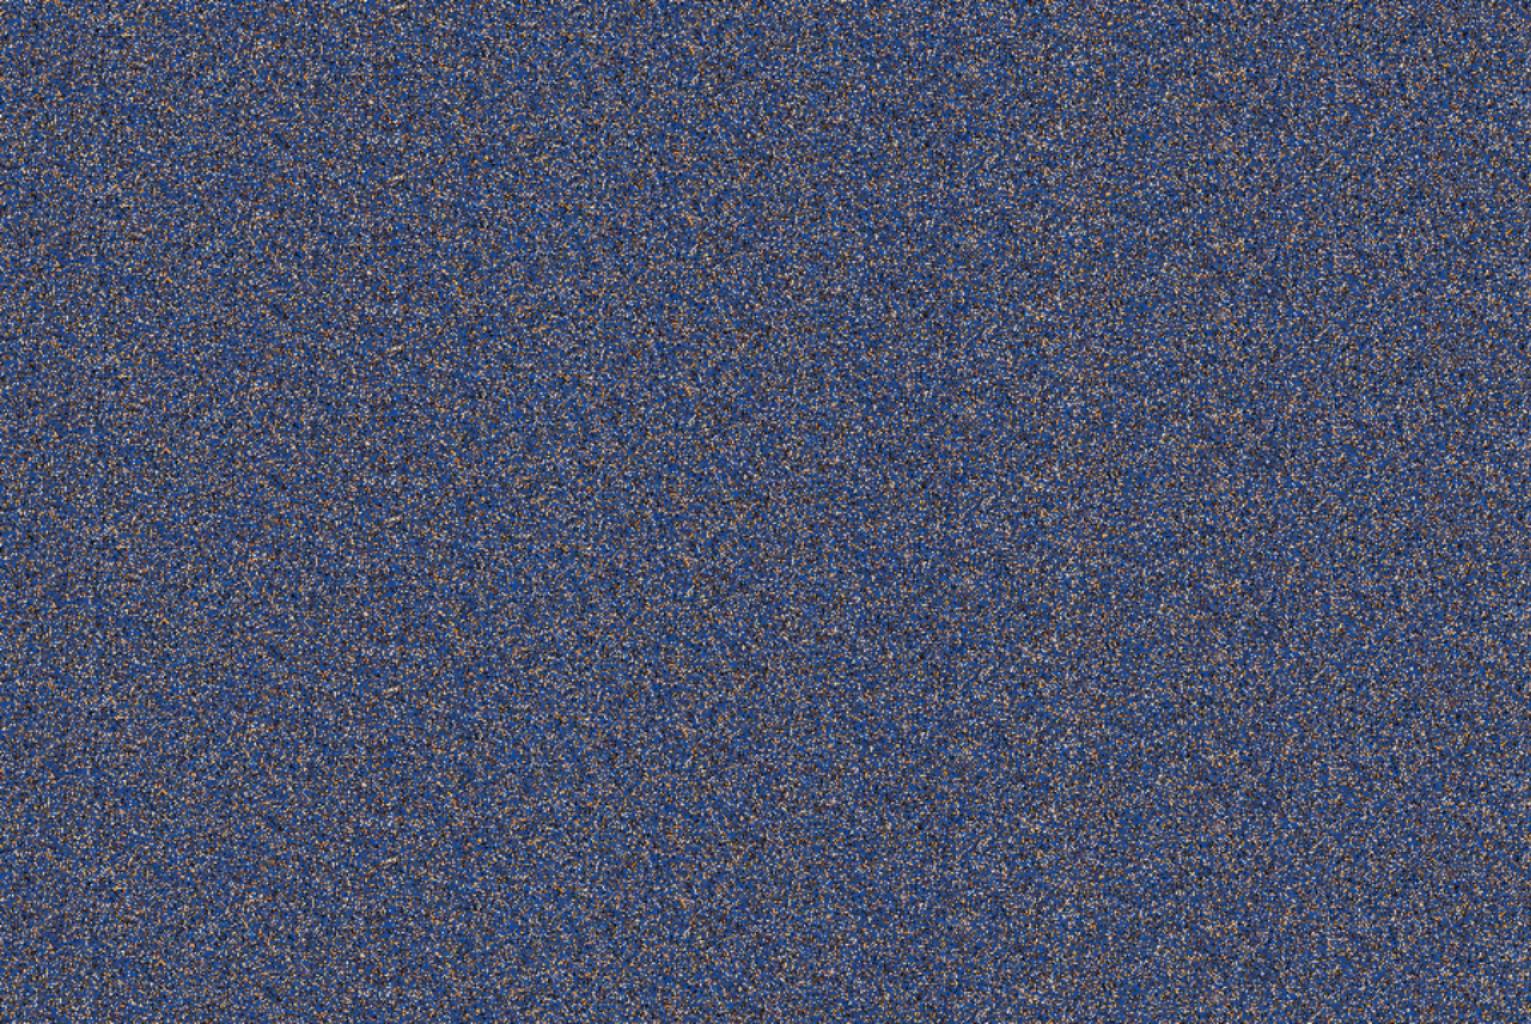

Dear Chloe,

I think I've decided I like the more natural looking wonders we've seen Petra almost looks like the rock formed this way miraculously'
I hope you can get what I mean from this postcard image Though, it is obviously better in person See you soon'

~Meghan

Dear Chloe,

There's so much to do in Rome, I could live here and never see it all. I think the Colosseum is my favorite part, which is why I am sending you this, though it never looks this peaceful! It's so cool how the old buildings are integrated with the modern city

~ Meghan

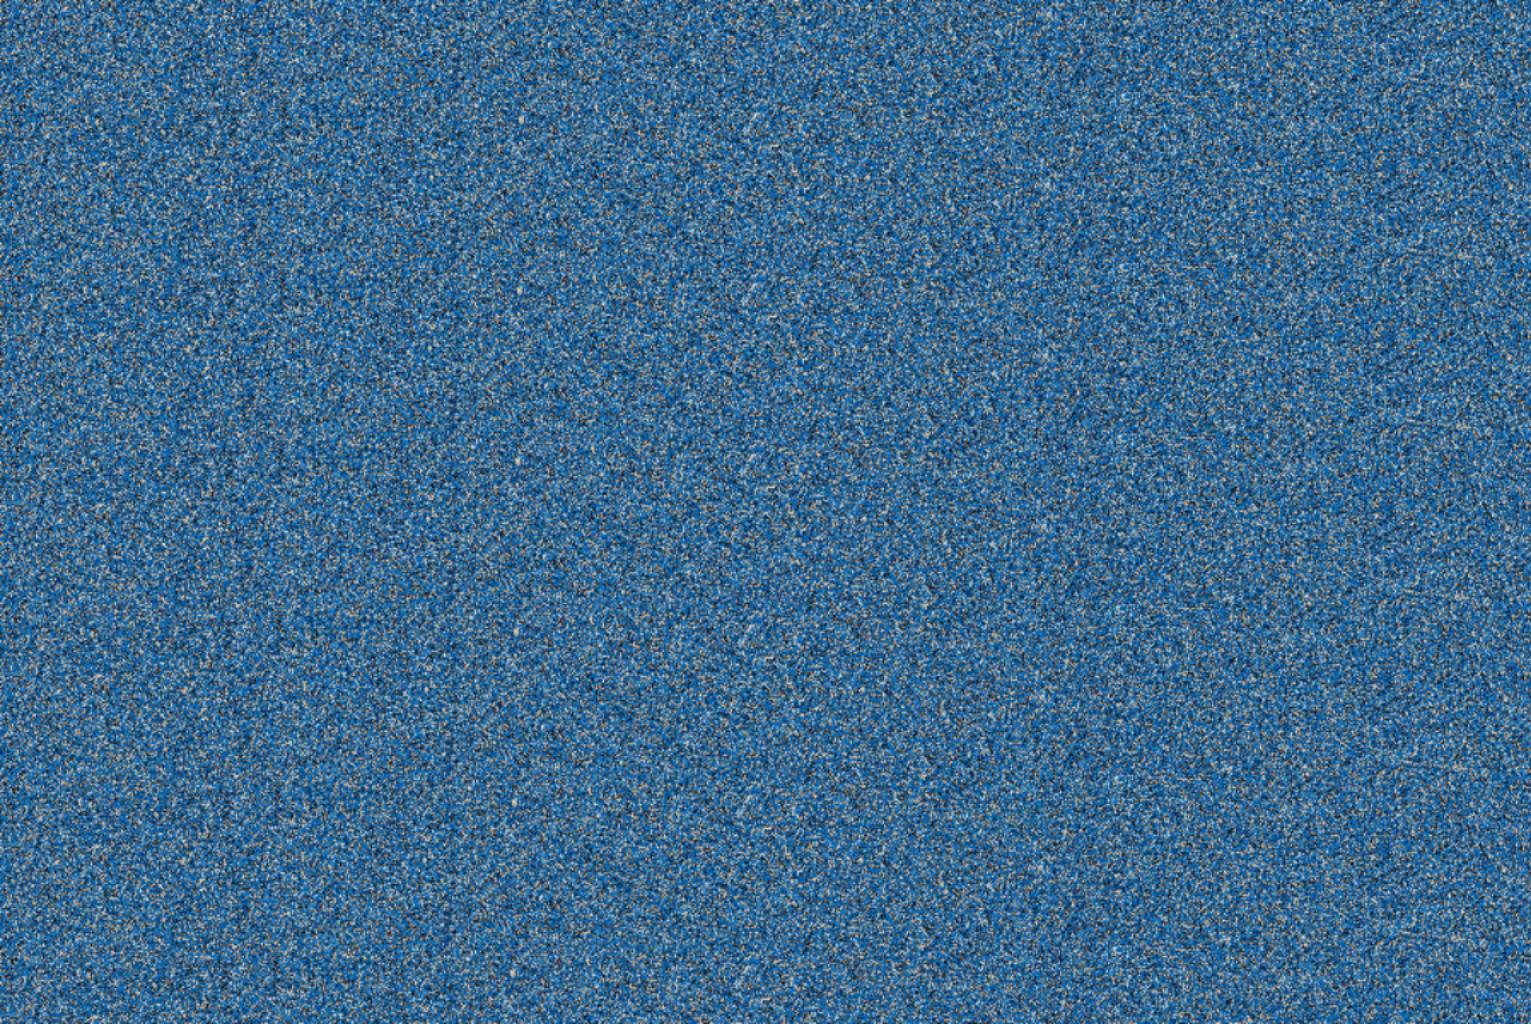

Dear Chloe,

wow, Santorini is so so gorgeous! The town and water are both so pristine. I got this postcard so you can see what both look like. The water is as blue as the roofs of some of the buildings, though it just sparkles when the light hits it! Can't wait to tell you more!

~Meghan

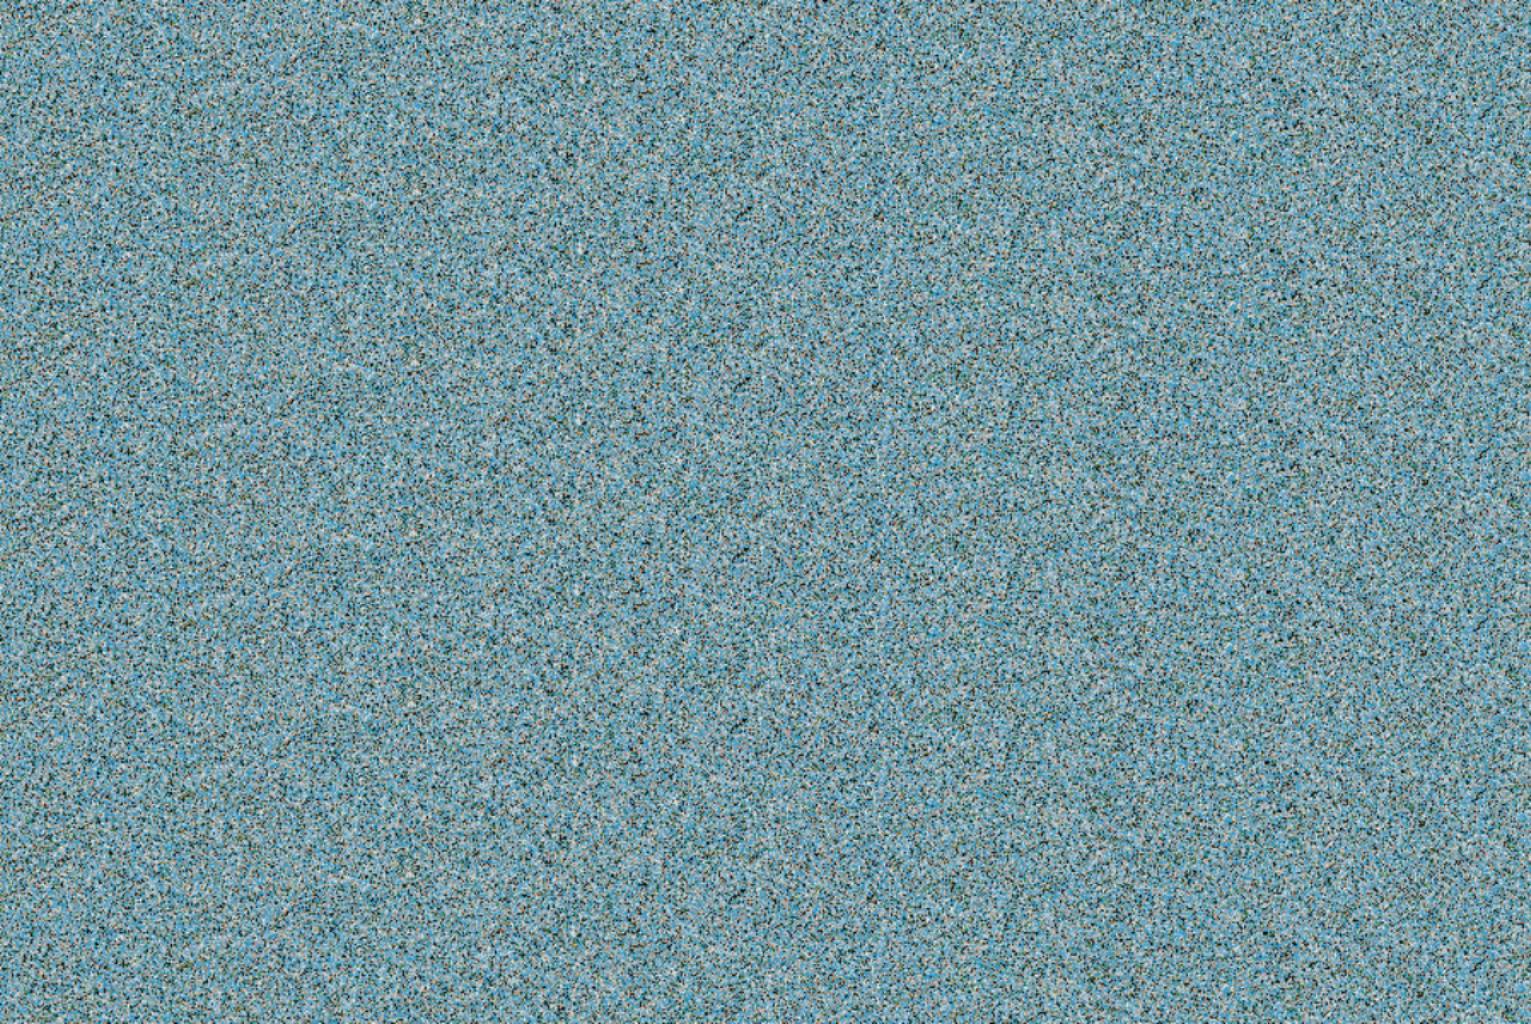

Dear Chloe,

I may or may not have annoyed everyone by saying P. Sherman 42 Wallaby Way Sydney the entire time we were here. It was worth it. The Opera House was underwhelming and I haven't seen a kangaroo yet, but I've been having a grand ole time, that's for sure! Can't wait to tell you more!
~Meghan

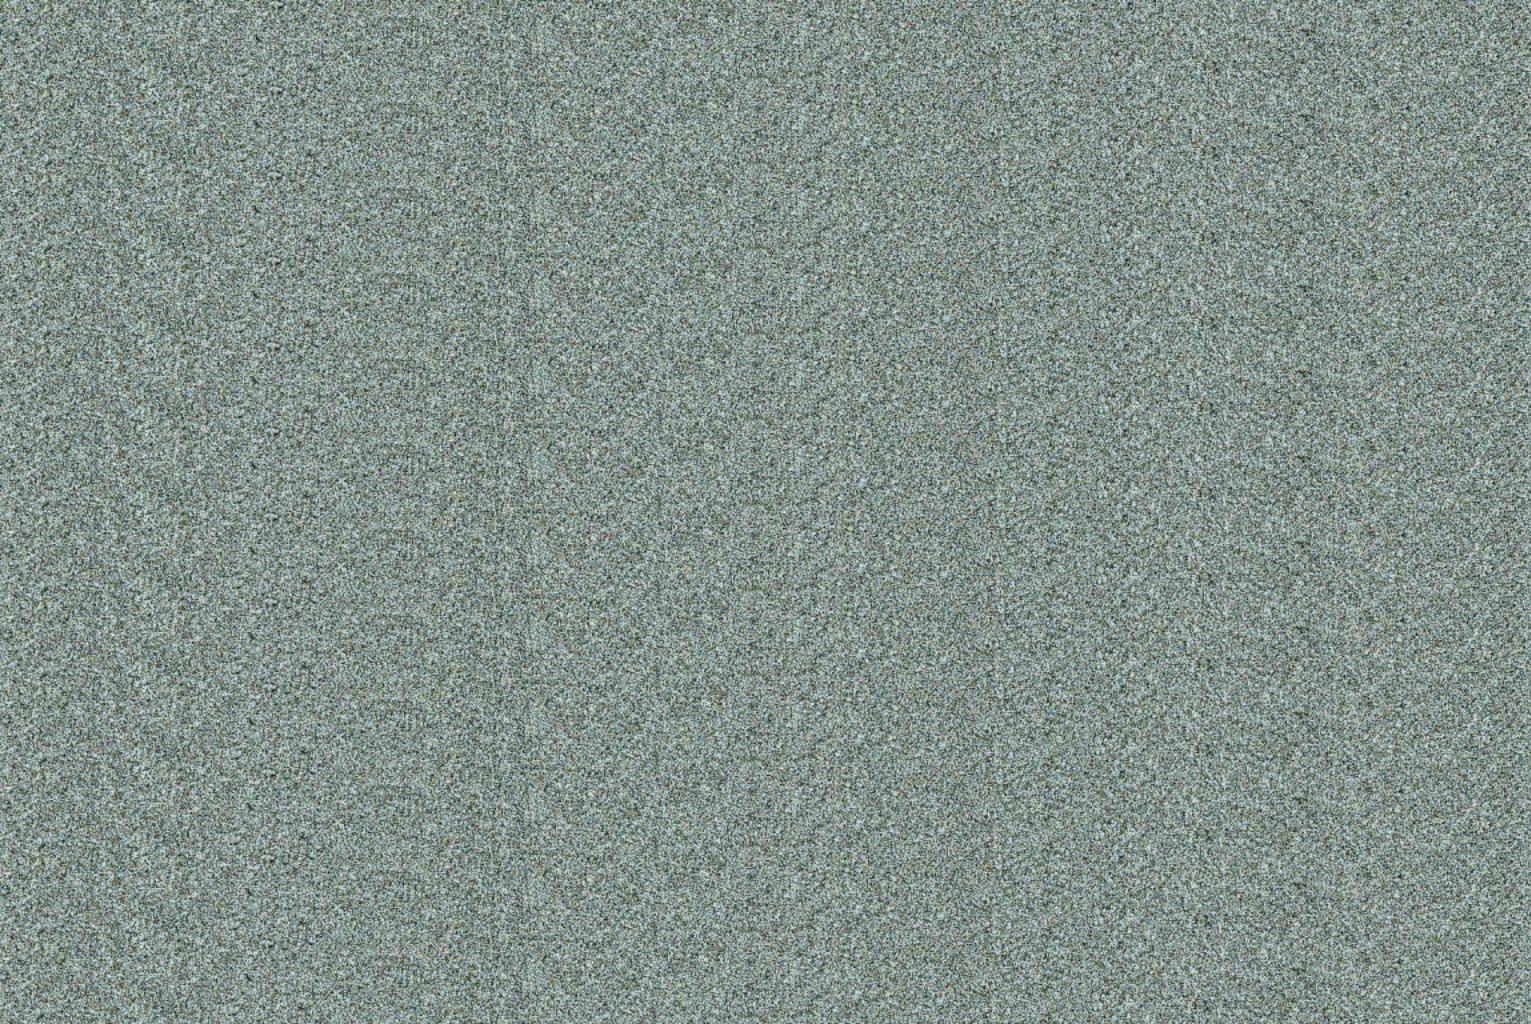

Dear Chloe,

The Taj Mahal is exquisite. I want to bring you some day soon! If I lived close to here, I would come every day. Maybe I would get sick of tourists, but it really is that beautiful and awe-inspiring. I need one for myself back home hahah! ~ meghan

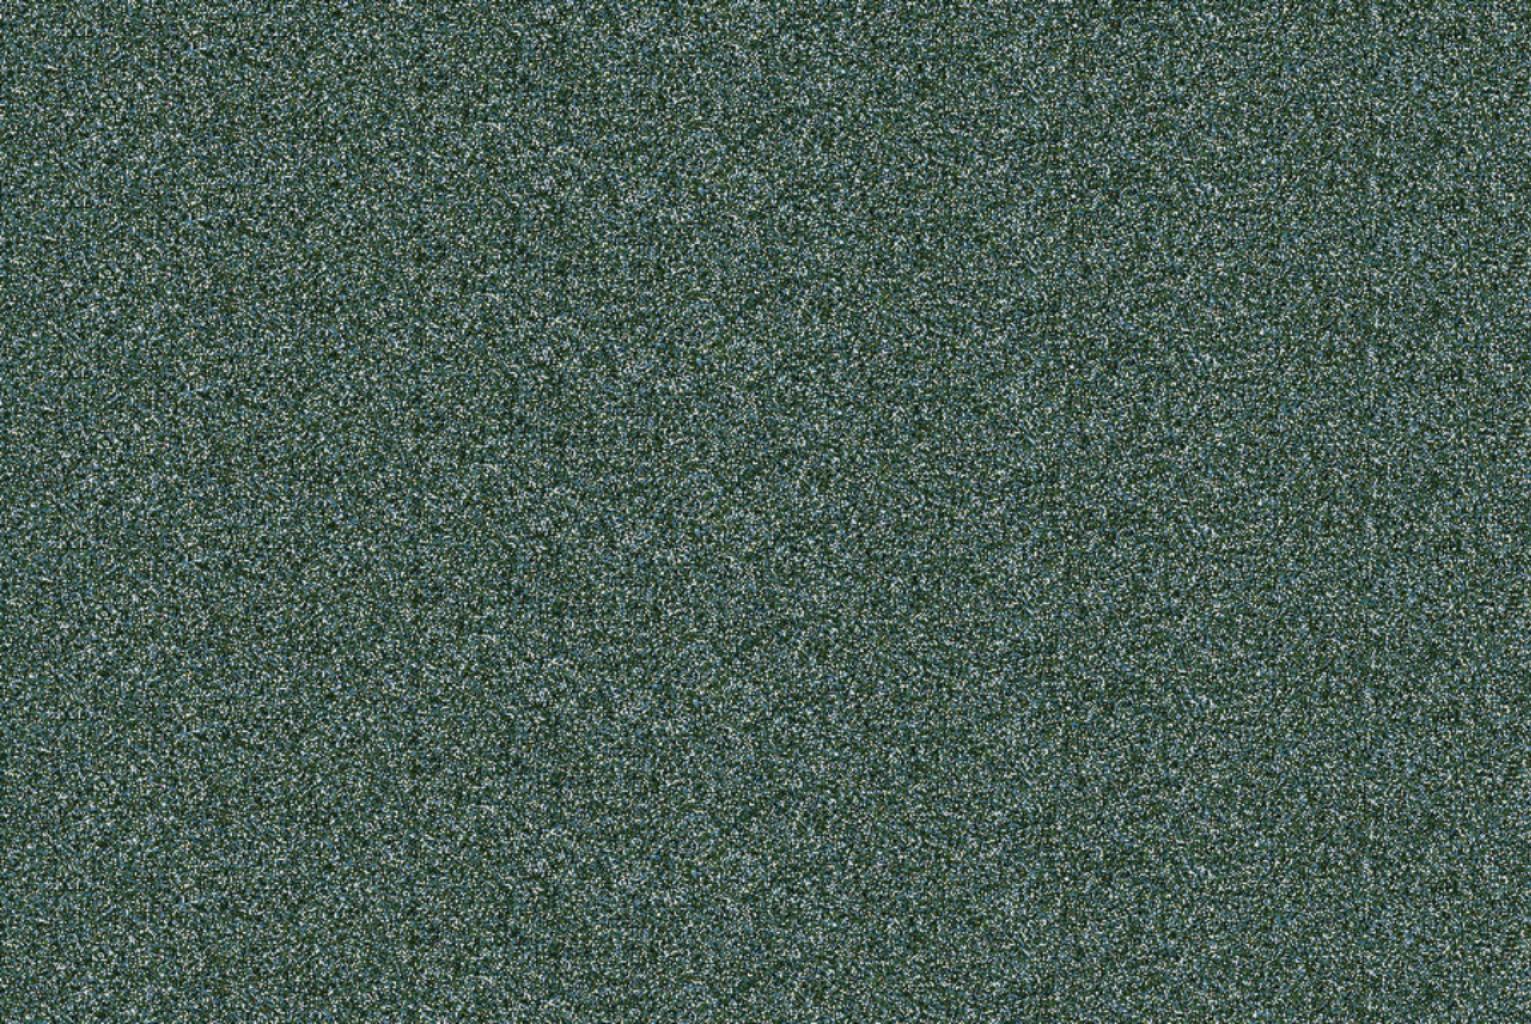

Dear Chloe,

Uncle John was not lying about Thailand! The scenery is amazing. I loved the rounded mountains (?) hills (?) that pop up in the water and create the sense of a secluded spot made just for you to revel in the wonder of creation

- Meghan

Dear Chloe,

Believe it or not, cl did climb up to the wall and walked along it for a while clt surely is a 'great' wall for a reason. We don't have much longer in China and there are so many things cl still want to do - sigh - that's the problem each time cl'll see you soon!

~ Meghan

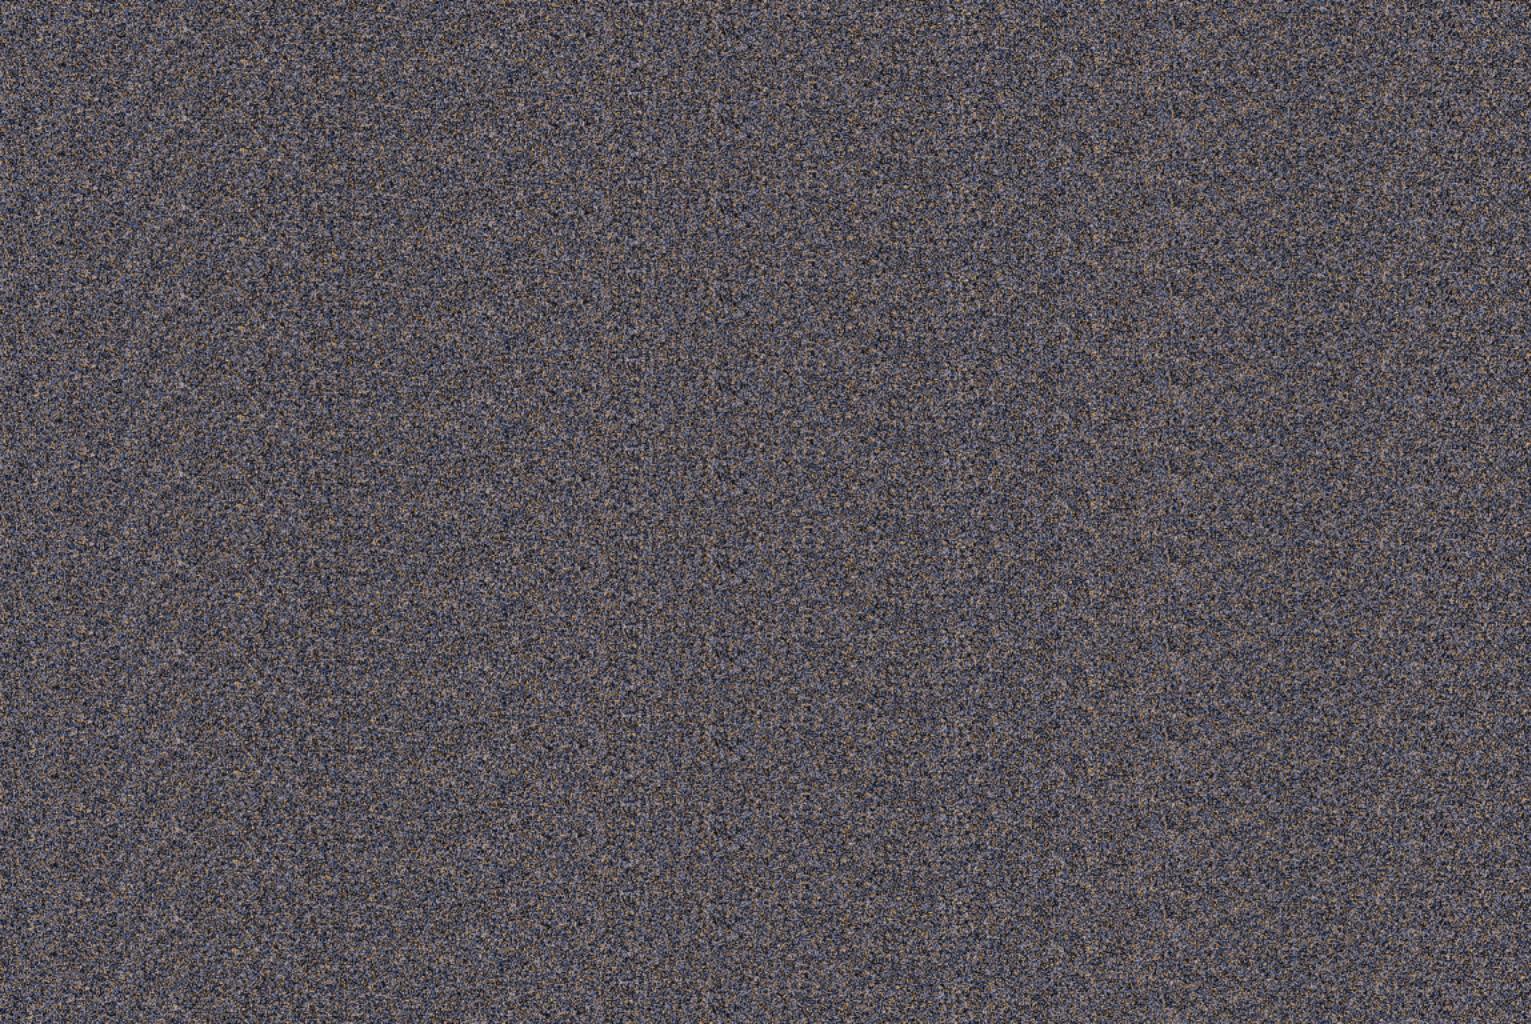

Dear Chloe,

No, I didn't see the queen, get my letter to Hogwarts, or find myself a part of a Sherlock murder mystery, but London has been great, I didn't get very much time to explore as we had just two days between flights, but I did get to hear a bunch of British accents and almost got run over forgetting which way to look before crossing the street! ~ Meghan

Dear Chloe,

Tahiti has been a dream! I sent you this so you can see just how incredible the sunsets are! You know I love the water, well I've never seen water as magical as this. It's been so nice to just relax for a while, read good books on the beach and soak up the sun! (Thank you again for your suggestions!) Missing you!

~ Meghan

Dear Chloe,

ah' cl wish you'd been with me when we saw the Duomo, but cl hope this image of it is good enough seeing it in person after learning about it was so cool' cl also walked to the top of the tower so lots of stairs, but such amazing views of the city
We ate some really great
cannoli nearby after, cl wish you could get them in the mail too ~ Meghan

Dear Chloe,

I know the pyramids look big even on this postcard image - but they are HUGE in person! It's incredible that these were made so well so long ago that we can still see them today. I wonder what Giza looked like when there was only one pyramid anyway. We will try riding camels tomorrow, so wish me luck even though you'll get this well after ~ Meghan

Dear Chloe,

The Grand Canyon was so nice! We hiked every day we've been here, so we are exhausted now and looking forward to the long car ride now actually. The best parts were seeing sunrises and sunsets from the top of the canyon, which is why I wanted to send you this image of the sunrise! Missing you lots

~ Meghan

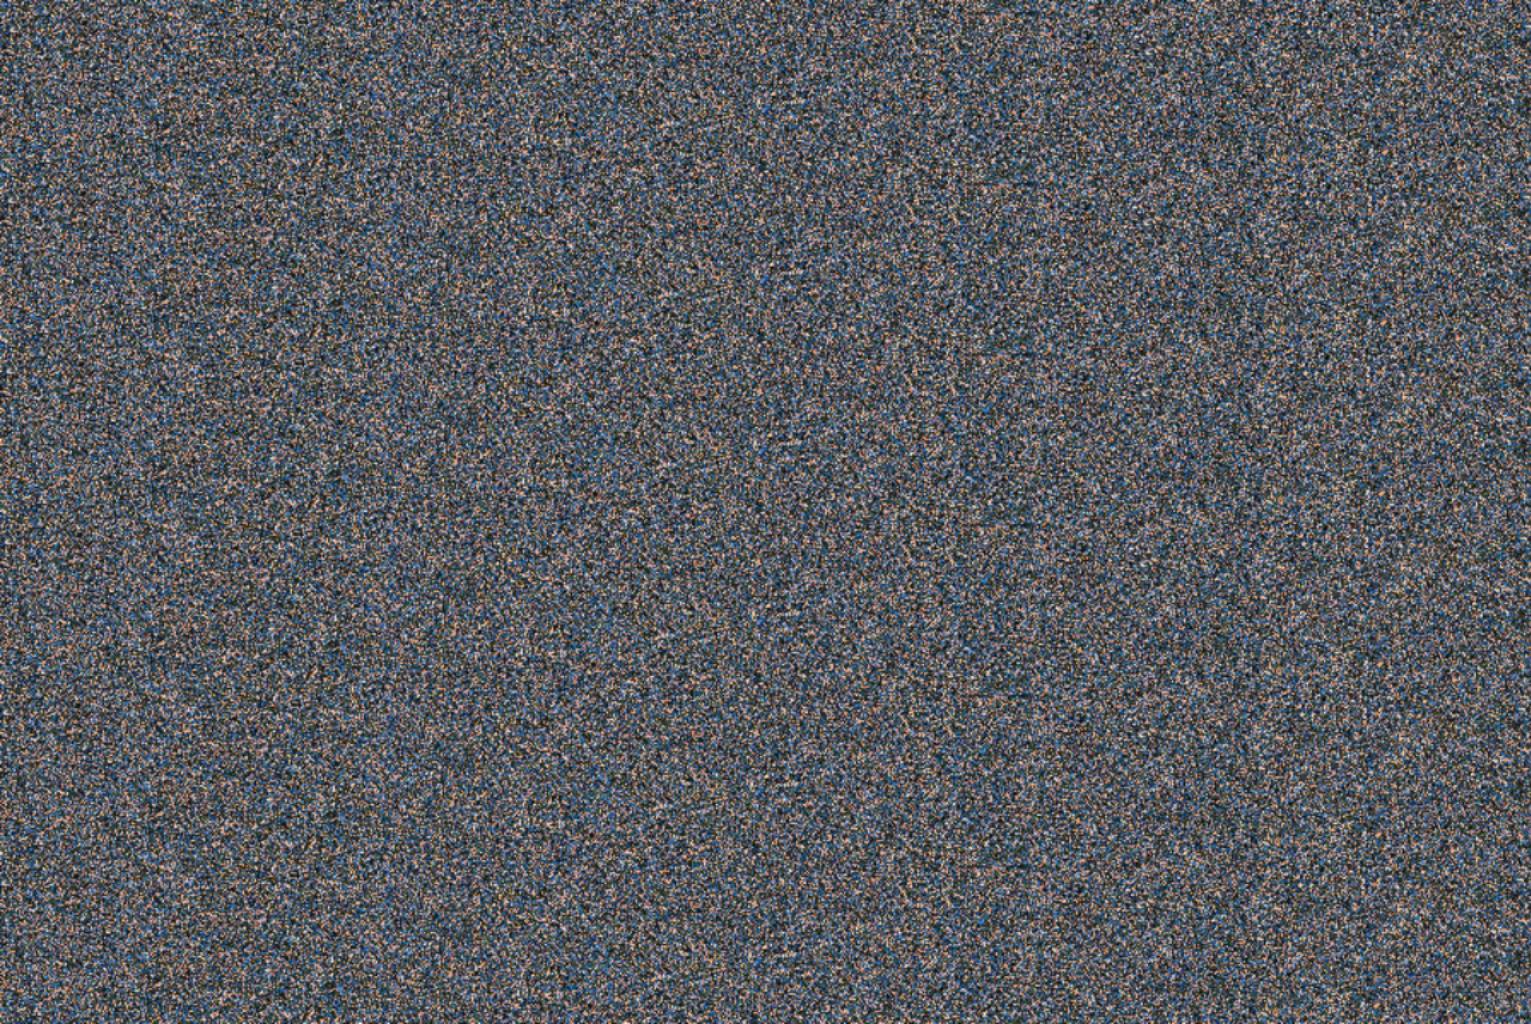

Dear Chloe,

I wanted to send you a postcard of the Eiffel Tower because I NEVER SAW THE TOP! It was so foggy the entire time we were in Paris, it just disappeared into the fog so I'll have no good photos to show you of it. The museums were great though! The Mona Lisa is tiny though and it's so crowded there, but seeing that orange seated scribe in the Louvre was cool! ~ Meghan

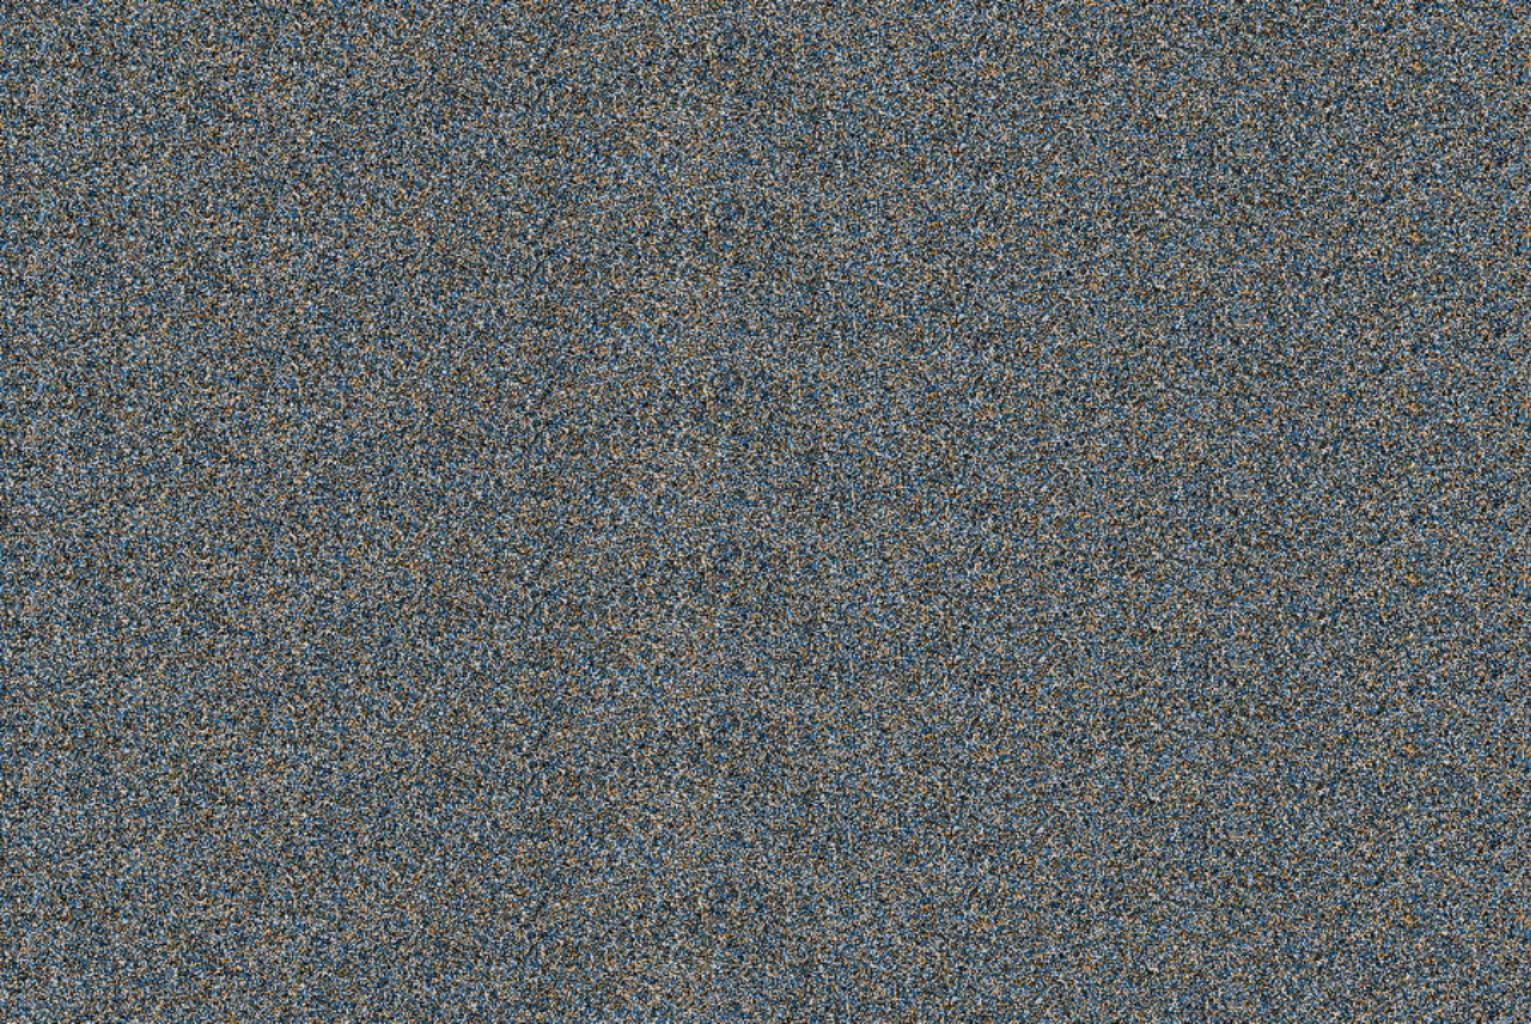

Dear Chloe,

since they've already named a company after this place I think I'll have to resort to naming my first born child Patagonia or maybe at least a dog. It's that pretty here. There's certainly nothing like this in Ohio. Will share more breathtaking photos when I'm back
- Meghan

Dear Chloe,

Machu Picchu is so cool! It practically grows out of the mountains. I also did actually see a llama! I called him Emperor Kusco, of course. It may have been a girl llama, but it still was Emperor Kusco. I've been trying to practice my Spanish here, it's not going great, but I'm trying - Meghan

